E. G. ASHER

Writes Another "Salty" Reply to Editor Robertson, of the Pineville Herald.

PINEVILLE, May 8, 1905.
Editor Mountain Advocate:

I notice that Lucius Robertson, editor of the Pineville Herald, assisted, and urged on by his co-conspirators, makes a cowardly, skulking and deceptively effort to deny the wicked statement that I charged him with having made against Caleb Powers. He sneakingly attempts to mislead or deceive the good people of Bell county by evading the question by stating that he had not used Caleb Powers' name in his paper since he had been editor of it. Mr. Robertson well knows that I did not accuse him of having gone through the Herald. He knows, as well as he knows, that there is a merciful God, that he made the statement in the office of the Pineville Herald in the presence of Frank Letcher and A. W. Bryant.

If Mr. Robertson had wanted to treat this matter with any degree of fairness he would have printed my letter in his paper along with his attempted answer, so that the readers of the Herald would have known what he was trying to do; as it is, they were left in the dark. This seems to be in line with his way of doing things from the fact. One of his eighteen subscribers approached him last week and asked him what his politics were, and he refused to tell. I take that he is ashamed of them, or that he is fixing to deceive some one.

The devil quoted, or misquoted the scripture in trying to tempt or deceive Christ. Jesus went up into a lonely place in the wilderness that he might meet the devil and stand up against all of the deceiving temptations that had led poor woman Eve astray. He was there in the bleak and lonely wilderness for days with nothing to eat and the devil came to him and said in a deceptive and sneaking way: "If thou be the Son of God command that these stones be made bread. But he would not do it at Satan's wicked word." Neither will the people of Bell county suffer themselves to be misled by one who comes to them of whom they know not whence he cometh. I would be willing to wager a doughnut to a ginger cake that if Christ should have demanded of the devil to tell his politics that he would have refused to do so. The devil with uplifted hands, with a cunning smile on his deceitful and horned face, showed Jesus all the beautiful kingdoms of the world and the glory of them, and said: "All these things will I give thee if thou wilt fall down and worship me." Likewise did ye editor of the Pineville Herald in a bluffing and demanding way, say to some of the many drummers who visit our city: "If thou wilt fall down and worship me and advertise in the Pineville Herald I will surely see to it that the King Merchant of Pineville buy goods from you." But though the good woman Eve had been tempted by seeing the beauty of the fruit, our Lord was not led astray by the deception of Satan. Neither will the glorious inducements offered by Mr. Robertson with all of his force to advertise in the Pineville Herald could the traveling men be led astray as did Eve by eating the forbidden fruit.

I desire to call your attention to the issue of the Pineville Herald of date of May 11. No doubt you remember reading a short letter addressed to me and written by Lucius Robertson; in that letter you will also remember that he made the following statement: "I believe now as I have believed that Caleb Powers, while not altogether guiltless, nevertheless, a victim of a political conspiracy, and should therefore be released."

By the above statement he half way confesses of being guilty of making the statement I have charged him with having made. A half truth is nothing more nor less than a lie. Why hesitate on the fence? Come on off and acknowledge the truth. An open confession is good for the soul.

You know and God knows that you said in the presence of two men, "that Caleb Powers is in jail where he ought to be." Why jump up and deny it and try to make the people believe that some one in Pineville had started a lie. You should have stepped back and let that other fellow answer it with a red-hot editorial as he expressed it, a little bit told me. It makes me shudder to think of that fellow turning loose with his pen. When he does I fully realize that such men as Hon. W. J. Bryan, of Nebraska; Henry Watterson, of Kentucky, now of Europe; John McLean, of Ohio; James Gordon Bennett, of New York, and Wm. Hearst, of New York, will all sink into everlasting insignificance, and the people in Pineville will run in holes and cry for the "rocks and mountains" to fall on them and hide them from him who holds in his hand the powerful pen.

Now, Mr. Robertson, coming back to you again. I desire to state here and now that I have nothing against you personally. I believe that you ought to have been the last man on earth to have uttered an unkind word about Caleb Powers or any of his family. You should have had a sweet remembrance of the charitable deeds extended to you while you were at Coalport, Knox county, by Caleb Powers' sister and brother-in-law. I hope that Mr. Robertson will be more careful hereafter and that he will have a vivid remembrance and the kindest feeling for those who so cheerfully helped him.

I am glad to announce that since I have been writing this article the good news has reached me that the Federal Court at London, Ky., has taken jurisdiction in the Powers case. This, in my opinion, means that we will soon have the unexpressed pleasure of marching to the polls to cast our vote for one of Kentucky's most gifted sons, the Hon. Caleb Powers, who is the worst abused man in the United States. If there is man in the 11th Congressional District, who has not any more judgment than to be a candidate against him for the nomination for Congress, will soon find out after he announces that the people will make fun of him, hold indignation meetings and hang him in effigy all over the 11th Congressional District, and send him home in a hurry and tell him never to attempt again as long as he lived to run against Caleb Powers. I love my dear old father with all the true love that it is possible for a son to have for his father, but if my father was a candidate against Caleb Powers I would go to him and tell him to come off the track, that I did not want to vote against him. Thank God that time fixes the destiny of everything, and that we will live to see the time when Caleb Powers will be freed and honored with an exalted position of trust.

—Signed,
E. G. ASHER.

ROBBERY.

Stores Broken Into and Goods Carried Away.

Last Monday night thieves entered the store of England, Ellison & Co. and carried away a considerable amount of goods. The entrance was effected by breaking through a rear window and unlocking the rear door through which the exit was made, taking the key with them.

This is the second time recently that this store has been robbed, and yet no law has been found to the guilty party or parties.

The fruit stand near the depot was also entered and a number of cans of goods carried away. The cash drawer was also rifled of fifty pennies, only four being left.

On the same night some one attempted to enter the storeroom of James Lock, near the depot. A ladder was placed against the building and the party climbed to the second story window and was attempting to raise it when Mr. Lock awakened. Seeing the figure at the window, he sprang out of bed and seized a shotgun and hastened to the window, but the party suspecting that it would be unsafe to linger about had dropped to the ground and very thoughtfully ran under the building and came out on the opposite side. Mr. Lock fired his gun to frighten the robbers away, but did not see them at the time he shot.

It was decided next morning to make a search with bloodhounds, and Capt. V. G. Mullikin, of Wilmore, was telegraphed to come, at 4 o'clock p. m. he arrived with old "Nick Carter" and "Rube," two of the best bloodhounds in the State. After making a search of the premises old "Nick" got the trail and the excitement was on. The trail was followed for two miles and circled back to town.

After feeding the dogs and resting while the second round was made, and finally tracking the party to where he had mounted a horse out in the northern end of town. Old "Nick" even marked the rail of the fence where the party climbed up to mount the horse, and the horse tracks were plain to be seen where he had ridden away.

The excitement was intense when the dogs first struck the trail in town, and were followed by perhaps two hundred spectators.

The dogs did such work that suspicion rests heavily upon certain parties and they will be shadowed and possibly detected as the guilty ones.

What should be done now without further delay is to purchase a pair of bloodhounds for Knox county. Capt. Mullikin told the Advocate man while here that he has a fine pair for sale, seven months old, and they are so well broken that they will trail better now than "Nick Carter" did at 18 months old.

We can buy them for $75.00 for the pair, and it would be a good investment for the town or county to see that they are secured at once.

With a pair of dogs here as well bred and as well broken as these pups, it would prove a terror to the community, and would have a tendency to break up this thievery here.

It is to be hoped that the guilty party may yet be detected and dealt with according to what they deserve.

SURPRISE SPRUNG

By the Attorneys Defending Caleb Powers at Georgetown Last Week

When Petition Was Filed Demanding Removal of His Case From Scott County Circuit Court to Federal Court.

Just at the hour of going to press last week we learned that a motion was made in the Circuit Court at Georgetown to transfer the case of Caleb Powers from there to the Eastern district of the Federal Court.

The petition asking for removal was signed by Mr. Powers' attorneys, as follows: Frank S. Black, former Governor of New York; Richard Yates, former Governor of Illinois; Robert C. Kinkaid, of Louisville; R. D. Hill, United States attorney for the Western district of Kentucky; James C. Sims, of Bowling Green, Ky.; H. Clay Howard, formerly Judge of Barren county.

The petition is addressed to the Honorable Circuit Court of the State of Kentucky, sitting in Scott county, and representing that the defendant is under indictment charging him with the crime of being accessory before the fact to the wilful murder of William Goebel, and is now in the custody of the State. The indictment in Franklin county and the removal of a case to Scott county on the defendant's application are set out.

After these preliminaries the petitioner declares that he has been all his life a citizen of the United States and Kentucky and as such is entitled to and entitled to enforce in the judicial tribunals of this State the equal civil rights and the equal protection of the laws secured to him by the following constitutional and other amendments:

(a) By that portion of the Fourteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution which provides that no State shall deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws.

(b) By that portion of the Fourteenth Amendment which provides: "Nor shall any State deprive any person of life, liberty or property without due process of law."

(c) By that portion of the Fourteenth Amendment which provides that "No State shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of any citizen of the United States."

(d) Section 1977 of the revised Statutes of the United States, which provides that all persons shall have the same right in every State and Territory to the full and equal benefit of all the laws for the security and protection of the laws.

(e) By an act of Congress passed March 1, 1875, recognizing the equality of all men before the law and holding it to be the duty of government in its dealings with the people to mete out equal and exact justice to all, of whatever nationality, race, color, persuasion, religious or political.

After setting out these grounds upon which the defendant claims the right to appeal to the Federal courts in case he is denied equal justice in the State court, the petition recites the fact that on March 9, 1904, a warrant was issued for Powers' arrest charging him with the crime for which he was afterward indicted, and that on the following day, March 10, after said warrant had been issued, a pardon was granted by W. S. Taylor, who was then the duly and legally elected, qualified, actual and acting Governor of Kentucky, and in control of the offices, books, papers, etc., of that office. Said pardon was entered upon the executive journal and a certificate issued and delivered to Powers and accepted by him and he now claims the full benefit thereof and his liberty thereunder.

The petition urges the point that at the time this pardon was granted, and subsequent and prior thereto, Taylor was recognized and treated as the duly elected, actual and acting Governor of Kentucky by the executive power and executive departments of the United States government, including the President, the Attorney General and the postmaster at Frankfort.

After reciting all these facts as ground work, the petition states that to require Powers to be tried by any court in Kentucky for this offense after being pardoned is a denial to him of the equal protection of the laws and the equal civil rights to which he is entitled under the Fourteenth Amendment and the laws quoted.

The petitioner recites that he has been three times tried and three times convicted, all the judgments having been reversed and on each of these trials he offered the pardon in evidence as a bar to prosecution, but the court overruled his pleas and refused to admit the pardon as evidence. The court of Appeals has each time sustained the holding of the lower court and all the courts of the State are therefore bound by that decision and cannot allow the defendant his liberty or acquittal by reason of said pardon.

The petition also states that there never has been an instance in the courts of Kentucky where a pardon issued as Powers' pardon was issued has been held invalid and the prisoner's release refused, involving a clear case of denial to this defendant of the equal protection of the laws.

Part second of the petition deals with the partisan character of the juries by which Powers has been tried and declares that he has no remedy because of the provisions of Section 281 of the Criminal Code of practice, which says:

"The decision of the court upon challenges to the panel and for cause upon motions to set aside an indictment, and upon motions for a new trial, shall not be subject to exception."

Then follows a recital of the facts familiar to those who have followed the several Powers trials, concerning the formation of the juries at each trial, insuring an overwhelming partisan trial before which an impartial trial was impossible.

The petition sets out that the above quoted section 281 has been sustained by the Court of Appeals, which has held that no matter how prejudicial to the substantial rights of the accused the action of the trial judge may be as powerless to reverse a case under that section.

The petition charges that this section is in effect a denial of the protection guaranteed by the Federal constitution, and therefore unconstitutional. At the close of each part of the petition the defendant makes this prayer: "Your petitioner therefore prays this Honorable Court that said indictment and the prosecution pending thereunder in this Honorable Court against your petitioner be removed into the Circuit of the United States of the Eastern district of Kentucky for trial at the next ensuing term of said court; and your petitioner will ever pray."

LAYING OF CORNER STONE

Of Wesley Chapel M. E. Church at Tuttle.

On Saturday of next week, May 20th, there will be a corner stone laying at Tuttle, Ky., in the edge of Laurel county. The occasion will be celebrated by both the church and the fraternal societies.

The church will be represented by Revs. T. B. Stratton and D. McDonald, of Barbourville.

The fraternity will be represented by Past Master Daniel Jackson, of London, Ky., and W. C. Black, of Barbourville, Ky. Most Worshipful Grand Master R. H. C. Rhea will appoint Past Master Daniel Jackson, of McKee Lodge, No. 144, as his proxy to do the work.

The Lodge has selected the following brethren as officers for the day: Dr. W. C. Black, S. W., J. B. Jones, J. W., Dr. Joseph Bryant, S. D., J. B. Eberlein, J. D., S. S. Phillips, J. M. Feltner and Hiram Taylor Stewards, Daniel Faulkner, S. B., Col. R. M. Jackson, Marshal.

We extend a cordial invitation to all Old Fellows and Knights of Pythias to be in procession in full regalia.

Everybody, one and all, are cordially invited to attend.

HUNG JURY

In Case of Commonwealth Against James Hargis.

The sensational trial of Judge James Hargis of Breathitt county in the Fayette circuit court at Lexington charged with complicity in the murder of James Cockrill was brought to a close last Saturday at noon when the jury was finally dismissed after it was found that there was no hope or prospect of reaching a verdict.

It is reported that the jury stood ten for acquittal and two for conviction. A new trial will possibly be had at an early date, but it is claimed by some attorneys that it was unfortunate for the defense that it was a mistrial as it will now give the prosecution the opportunity of appealing to the Court of Appeals upon the instructions of the trial court as regards the defendant being an accessory before the fact to the murder of Cockrill.

The trial judge admitted Judge Hargis to bail in the sum of $25,000, which he promptly gave and has returned to his home in Jackson.

DID YOU EVER THINK OF IT?

With the large majority of the human family the newspaper editor is the most abused man in the entire community, and yet he is the one that it is next to impossible to get along without.

To illustrate we will give you a picture:

There is to be a swell wedding at the largest church in town. The florist does the decorating and is paid a handsome price; the minister steps up to the contracting parties at the altar and says a few words and pronounces them husband and wife, and he is a handled A V or N; the editor is there and the next issue of his paper contains two columns of a write-up telling how sweet the bride appeared leaning on the arm of the man she had chosen as a life companion. He receives an order for "a dozen or so copies to send to some particular friends." He receives O, and often is asked to mail them out to the addresses, paying for same out of his own strong box.

In due season a bright-eyed girl or a bouncing baby boy is left at the new made home. The physician receives an X and the editor gives another column write-up of the new arrival and receives OG.

Finally the years have passed and the angel of death visits the home and touches the once sweet bride and proud mother and the undertaker receives $50; the preacher is again called in and performs the last rites, he receives a V or an X and the editor again devotes a column or more telling of the many acts of kindness, the lovely traits of character, the broken circle, the vacant chair, the loss of the departed companion and mother and extends the sympathetic hand and receives OOO and another order for a few surplus copies to send to friends.

So thus it goes on through life and yet the editor is expected to respond to every charitable institution, must always get his paper out on time, and must not criticize the conduct of any man or woman who, on account of wealth, stands high in the community, no matter how they came in possession of same. Must be ready at all times to say something good concerning the old miser who, instead of giving $5.00 in the collection on Sunday, will drop in a penny.

Surely the life of the editor is one peculiar to itself and he should not be envied of any good thing that may come his way.

OCCASIONALLY we meet with a man who says "I am in favor of building good roads first and then the Court-house afterwards." Now this is the wrong idea as we see it for this reason:

The proposition is now before the people to be voted on at the next November election whether or not Knox county shall issue bonds to the amount of $30,000 to erect a new Court-house. If this proposition should fail it would mean that we could not again in three years take the vote again, and the matter of improving our Court-house would kill all the spirit of enterprise that may exist in this county.

On the other hand if the proposition should carry, the people would have twenty years in which to pay for the bonds, and the increase of taxes would not be felt. Then with this new Court-house going up it would inspire our citizens to turn their attention to our county roads, and the Court-house proposition would in no way interfere with the road work in the least.

What we need is a road tax and compel every man to either pay or work it out on the roads. Then we will have good roads, and not until then, no matter what steps are taken with regard to the proposition to erect a decent Court-house.

That is the proper view to take of the matter and not let a matter of so great importance as this be trampled down for a bit of petty spite. Think of this in a business-like way before reaching a final conclusion.

GONE WRONG AGAIN.

After quoting our reply in full, the Pineville Herald last week, to excuse itself, published the following:

"We most humbly suggest that our beloved contemporary take a bit of his own medicine about 'reversing our meaning.' The oldest section of our State is the mountains. A proposition to surrender the name Kentucky to the 'newer part,' means simply to let the Blue Grass keep the old name. Bro. Clark certainly advocated that surrender, and does yet, and for that we suggested that he should no longer call himself the Mountain Advocate, but henceforth the Blue Grass Advocate. The first house built in Kentucky was in this section, and yet he would give the Blue Grass the honor of being the oldest section. Now, my brother, come down and make the 'amendi honorable.'"

As to our politics. We are politically independent. This means that we are tied to the apron string of no political party. Personally, the editor of the Herald is from conviction a Democrat. Prohibitionist, and stands for the anti saloon movement in whatever party or candidate he finds it. But the personal politics of this editor is his own private business. The Pineville Herald is politically independent.

A newspaper does not necessarily follow the politics of its editor. The late Colonel J. E. McGowan, of the Chattanooga Times, was, ten years ago, the greatest Democratic editor in the South, but personally a "most rabid Republican." The Pineville Herald means to be a non-partisan county paper, standing for the mountain people in all things.

What is there in a name? A rose would smell as sweet by any other name. Then tell us, we pray, why should this paper change its name? As its name implies, it advocates the interests of the mountains; this it has done all the way through and is still doing.

True, the first house built in what now is known as the State of Kentucky and was built in this section and in Knox county, but it was not Kentucky or Knox county at that time, but Kentucky county, Virginia. Now would another change in name for this particular section effect any person or deprive the mountains of any honor?

We pass it back to you, Bro. Robertson, come down and make the "amendi honorable."

We have succeeded in "smoking" the Herald editor out and caused him to state where he stands politically. We have no complaint as to the politics of any man, but we do detest false colors, and let a man be what he will, we want to see him have courage enough to come out and state his position and stand by it.

The people of Bell county owe it to THE ADVOCATE for forcing the new editor of the Pineville Herald to publicly state his position when it was clearly against his will or wish to do so.

THE Louisville Times copied our unique proposition of last week relative to "THE ADVOCATE Hen" and credited it to the Auburn Advocate as follows:

"In order to impress upon the people the fact that every one can afford his home paper, the Auburn Advocate makes the following subscription proposition:"

Now we do not understand why such credit as that should be given. We are aware that the term "Auburn" is usually applied to red hair. Did the Times mean to infer that THE ADVOCATE was read, or did he think the editor was "red-headed"? If the former, he was correct, but if the latter, he was sadly mistaken, as our locks were naturally jet black, but either the cares or worries attached to the affairs of THE ADVOCATE orearly piety have caused a few threads of silver to appear.

We hope the Times will be more careful next time to credit articles that they see fit to use and credit from this paper TO THE MOUNTAIN ADVOCATE, of Harboursville.

FARMERS SHOULD THINK.

Every farmer should learn and teach their children to observe and collect facts. He should study the capacity of his soils, their adaptability to the various crops, what fertilizers are profitable, and what are not, and also what are the best modes of culture.

He should try to solve the problem of how to increase the productiveness of the farm to the greatest possible extent with the smallest expense and the least injury to the soil. The solution of this problem must be solved by every farmer for himself. There is such a vast difference in soils and other elements that enter into this problem that the solution of it in one locality will not be a solution in another.

Agricultural colleges are sending out literature from month to month describing experiments made, and these experiments are being carried on under the supervision of the intellectual, scientific men. Never before in the history of agriculture have so many aids been accessible to the farmer.

Farmers should think. Their vocation demands long planning ahead. They should know what crops should be grown on any given field for years ahead. Then rotation of crops should be skillfully planned and energetically executed. A farmer who resolutely pursues such a line of policy will be sure to succeed in the end. His progress may at first be slow, but he works to a purpose and a few years will demonstrate his wisdom, not only in increased crops, but in a thoroughly systemized plan of operations which will yield the most gratifying and profitable results.

THE FIRST KISS.

The greatest surprise to a girl who gets kissed the first time is that there is no taste to it—Waterloo Times.

No taste to it? Well, by the hen feathers in Cupid's dart, but the Times must be color blind in the palate. They tell us—those who tried it—that it tastes like a double distilled essence of honey spread thick upon a piece of pumpkin pie. Away back in the dim and joyful years before we lost our teeth and our chin on the beauty prize the prettiest girl in all the world told us that it felt like a covey of quails flying out of each ear and ended up with a sensation like a flock of angels put moans down one's back. No taste to the first kiss? Great Scott! It would make a wooden Indian's hair curl up and his toe nails quiver in ecstasy! The Times' man must be an ice house!—Ex.

AFTER much reflection, the editor of the Chicago Tribune has concluded that it would be setting a bad precedent to hang Cable Powers if he is innocent. This noble and courageous sentiment shows what a mighty power can be exercised by the press when those in authority have the ability and courage displayed by the Tribune editor.

A Column Dedicated to Mothers as they Join the Home Circle at Evening Tides.

YOUR PAIN.
You may not know him when your sky is bright:
There are many faces sweet and bland,
Reflecting fortune's smiles as dewdrops mingle with shining around your way in every hand.

You may not know him by his words of praise:
There are as many lips to praise success,
And formal flatteries lead row life's tedious ways.
Like fallen leaves the nutmeg witnesses.

And you may scold the windy helms of fate:
And another wreaths and honor without end;
And yet, among the pleasant crowds who surround your name,
You may not know, undoubtedly, your friend.

But, ever should your summer day be dark,
And storms descend upon your straitened bark,
Just as you deem yourself, with Fate, alone,
Your life friend's voice shall hail you through the dark.

WE have many cases on record today of "dying high and lighting low" as the old adage runs, that if there is one thing more than another that we should like to warn new housekeepers against, it is trying to look rich while they are yet poor. Better begin on a small scale than put the last dollar in a display that cannot be maintained to the end.

BEAUTY in dress is a good thing, rail at it who may. But it is a lower beauty, for which a higher beauty should not be sacrificed. They love dress too much who give it their first thought, their best time, or all their money; who for it neglect the culture of the mind or heart, or the claims of others on their service; who care more for dress than for their character; who are troubled more by unfashionable garments than by a neglected duty.

A COLLECTION OF DON'T'S
Don't laugh at a child's fears and fancies; try to understand them. If they are false, try to show him the truth.

Don't sacrifice the home to an exaggerated sense of neatness. The home is for the inmates and it cannot be enjoyed if a displaced book or chair calls forth a storm of reproach.

Don't be a wet blanket. Enthusiasm is youth's most precious possession and it is nourished by the faith that those we love have in us.

Don't criticize the follies of youth. Make the young folks welcome in your home if you would grow up with your sons and daughters.

Don't fail in loyalty, honor and charity to the husband, whom you have chosen of your own free will, or to the children who are yours by no volition of theirs.

Don't consider yourself ill-used. If you are, have spirit enough to put a stop to the ill-usage, but do it with out whining.

Don't wear a frowning face about the house. A mother's smile is the sunshine of home.

Don't send a child who is afraid into the dark alone. Bear with his infirmity considerably and tenderly until he outgrows it.

Don't fail to cherish your own in the full sense of the word; to treat tenderly, to love, foster, comfort and support.

Don't fail in self-reliance. Self-poise and courage are beautiful and inspiring.

Don't forget that life is a compromise, a compromise with difficulty and disaster, never with dishonor.

Don't overlook the fact that there are compensations in all things and that sorrow develops the soul.

Don't forget that your children must work, suffer and endure in order to grow.

Don't worry. Work, do your very best, and having done that, laugh away the difficulties to be met and enjoy the rest and happiness you have earned.

Don't be cross; it upsets the children; it distracts your husband; it makes you prematurely old and ugly.

Don't make too many points of difference with a child. Remember the cardinal virtues, be firm in teaching these, but be blind to the little faults and foolishness that time will right without constant fretting on your part.

Don't fail in foresight and prudence; they are homely virtues, but comfortable to live with.

Don't forget that an atmosphere of "don'ts" is a most miserable place for children to breathe in.

DON'T DRIFT WITH THE TIDE.

Two persons stand upon the same bluff overlooking the great Mississippi. The one can see nothing but a winding sheet of water obliged to follow down an incline on the earth's surface and therefore was of no interest to him. While the other, agitated and with awe and admiration for the wonderful forces of nature, behold a mighty river, as in its ceaseless power and majestic beauty it rolls ever onward towards the sea. As we saw the ripple of the water here and there as it played around some hidden rock, we thought of the pilot who, when asked if he knew where all the dangerous rocks and shoals were along the deep river, replied, no, but I know where the deep water is, and if we keep the boat in the deep water we shall be safe and need not worry much where the rocks are and as we mused, we thought we might learn a lesson from this, and not fool away our lives paddling along the shores of the river of time, probing around trying to find all the rocks. We believe many lives are wrecked, not so much by storms of life, as by drifting with the tide and striking those rocks and coming in contact with the hidden sins and dangers along the shore. Push out on the deep water, head your bark up stream—none but lazy, indolent people drift with the tide. Lay hold upon the promises of God and pull against the current and as the years roll by as ceaseless as the flow of this mighty river we shall be able to look back with peace and consolation upon a life well spent in service for God, humanity and by and by how sweet will come the welcome words, "Well done, good and faithful servant."

Here is my hand, Henry, and may you and yours glide down sweetly the conjugal stream toward the port where cometh no sorrows. GEORGE JENKINS.

OVERFLOW LOCALS.

Mr. Wm. M. Dishman has been granted a license to practice law and will occupy an office here with his father, Judge S. B. Dishman. Will, as the boys familiarly call him, is a bright young man, and since he surrendered the management of the News here two years ago has applied himself diligently to the study of his chosen profession. We bespeak for him a successful career, and as he is a personal friend of ours, we extend to him the glad "sh" and wish him unlimited success. May his suits at law be many and profitable.

Mr. B. J. Hulse, of Artemus, paid this office a pleasant visit Monday and brought in a fine sample of early seed corn, for which we extend thanks. Mr. Hulse is one of Knox county's best farmers, and is a thrifty, industrious business man. He has been a constant reader of THE ADVOCATE from the time it was established, and says he could not do without it.

The first brick was made by the new brick plant last Wednesday, and they are beauties. This plant has started out to do a fine business, and already there is a demand for a large lot of the brick. We wish the enterprise great success.

Do you know the value of "HANS LUSTRO FINISH"? It makes old floors, furniture and woodwork look more beautiful than when they were new. And it lasts. See finished samples at F. C. Moore's.

Alex Wilson and Ralph Tuggle have put down a fine water well at the new brick plant this week, the water stands at the top of the casing.

Green Seal Paints stand thinning with pure linseed oil, and are therefore more economical than other paints. Read directions on every package. For sale by F. C. Moore.

One thing that our town or county should do at once is to purchase a pair of bloodhounds and have them here ready in case they were needed.

Assignee's Sifting.

The undersigned assignee of D. Carnes, late merchant at Walker, Knox county, Ky., will on the 3rd day of June, 1905, at the law office of F. D. Sampson in Barbourville, E. MITCHELL CARNES, Assignee.

Commencement.

The Commencement Exercises of the Barbourville Institute began at the chapel last Sunday morning, when Dr. E. B. Pollard, of Georgetown, delivered the baccalaureate sermon. The chapel was crowded and every one was highly pleased with him. His discourse showed deep thought, and his ability as a speaker helped him in bringing before his audience the force of his thoughts.

On Monday evening a lecture was delivered by Rev. G. W. Perryman, of Knoxville, Tenn. A large audience was out to hear him, and all were delighted with his lecture.

On Tuesday evening Miss Clara Beaumont, of the Music Department, gave a musicale, which was highly appreciated by all the music lovers.

Wednesday evening a song recital was given by the Suffern-Putnam Co., of New York, and was a rare treat to the music lovers.

Thursday night marked the close; or, as is commonly called, the commencement exercises proper, and the little folks all did exceedingly well, and a packed house was there to witness the exercises. All were delighted.

Trustee Election.

Last Saturday afternoon was the annual election for School Trustee in this city, and there were two vacancies to be filled.

There were four entries for the positions as follows: J. F. Stanfill, A. W. Hopper, B. S. Matthews and Robert Smith. Some of the candidates electioneered strong, while others said not a word. The interest was caused by certain candidates expressing themselves favorable to Prof. W. C. Faulkner as principal for the next term.

It was understood that Stanfill and Hopper favored Prof. Faulkner, and the vote stood as follows:

Stanfill.....	97
Hopper.....	79
Smith.....	47
Matthews.....	31

My Own Story BY Caleb Powers

This book is a calm, dispassionate account, from the standpoint of the man most interested, of the conditions in Kentucky leading to the assassination of William Goebel, and of Powers' indictment and conviction on the charge of complicity in his murder.

It covers his youth in the mountains of Kentucky, the conventions of 1890, the election, the shooting of Goebel, the arrest, the three trials and the prison life.

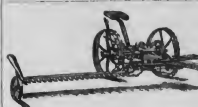

For dramatic situations, human interest and political importance, the case of Caleb Powers is unequalled.

Located in the heart of the Chiricahua Mountains, Cochise county Arizona, in the biggest, Richest Copper Mining district in the world.

This city MONTE CRISTO, has just sprung into existence in the center of a group of claims owned by the Monte Cristo Conservative Mining Company of Douglas, Arizona, and stockholders in this mining company will have a real estate and industrial value attached to their stock, making it a gilt edge investment, as they will own the town-site, water system, electric light and power plant, telephone, ice and cold storage plants.

This stock is still selling at 50c, the amount it originally sold for before the town-site was even thought of, but it is bound to reach $1.50 a share, or higher, soon.

For a safe investment and clean, cash profit this YOUR opportunity. Will you grasp it?
